

Salt Lake Mayor

Harrison begins job

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Republican Conrad B. Harrison became mayor of Salt Lake City Tuesday, filling a month-long vacancy which opened when Jake Garn resigned after his election to the U.S. Senate.

The City Commission which announced the choice Monday, made it official with Harrison's election during Tuesday's mid-morning ceremonies.

Harrison, 63, has been on the commission for 14 years and has been in charge of the parks department since 1967.

City Recorder Herman Hogenes, 66, was named to fill Harrison's unexpired three-year term on the commission. He'll be in charge of Salt Lake City's

Campus check policy hampered card pickup

Because cashiers at the BYU Bookstore and the Administration Building would not cash checks without a current activity card, the card pickup lines were jammed Monday.

Gary Carver, assistant dean of Student Life, said they had not anticipated that so many students would need their activity cards so early.

It was arranged so that one third of the students could pick up their cards on each of the three days the pickup center is in operation. On Thursday, the center will move back to the Administration Building.

For some who had been turned away Monday afternoon, students contacted there Tuesday afternoon were generally pleased with the system.

Frank Judd, a senior in accounting from Coalville, Utah, was one of those who had come back a second time, and thought the system was a vast improvement over last year, but added, "There's got to be a better way."

Carver said there would probably be some changes made in the process for the next registration, but no used at all.

One possibility is to hand out all the cards and grades in one day, which would require a much larger operation.

The cards could not be mailed because it would cost around $2,500, and many students do not have a reliable address, according to Carver.

When asked about the helpfulness of the schedule published in the Universe, one of the "gatekeepers," Elma Linford, a junior in music from Camarillo, Calif., said "the schedule in the paper has nothing to do with the actual situation here."

Carver said the schedule has been published to help even out the flow. There are theoretically an equal number of names beginning with each letter of the alphabet for each digit, but for some unknown reason, some lines were busy all the time, and some were hardly used at all.

water supply. Since the resignation of Garn, R-Utah, the commission has met secretly several times to fill the void. There had been speculation that someone outside city government would be named to cause another commissioner, Jennings Phillips Jr., also wanted the job.

But late Monday Phillips threw his support to Harrison.

"I think the mayor should come from within. I knew we were deadlocked and since Mr. Harrison is senior commissioner, he should be mayor," Phillips said.

Harrison reacted by saying, "It's kind of a scary sort of thing, but it's quite a responsibility the commissioners have given me. It shows support and confidence and makes you feel good."

No new leads in two assaults

Provo police reported no new leads in their search for two men suspected of sexually assaulting three BYU girls last week.

One suspect is described as 34 years-old, six feet one-inch tall, and 180 pounds. He has a red beard and wears brown plastic frame glasses.

He is also suspected in connection with the attempted rape of a coed Saturday night at an apartment complex near campus.

The other man is believed to be 40 years-old, six feet tall and weighs 190 pounds and wanted in connection with the rape of two coeds last Wednesday morning.

Housing tight for Y students

Student housing in Provo is still tight, but all students registered so far are housed, according to Delyle Barton, BYU's head of dorms.

The 6,000 students expected to register this week will not have a great selection, but it is expected the Housing Office will be able to accommodate those, Barton said.

Barton has not heard of any students unhouseable by Provo's city ordinance requiring offstreet parking for student renters. This was confirmed by David Gardner, Provo City zoning administrator. Gardner explained the city is working with those in violation to bring them up to standards and not mandating immediate change.

the ground," Bingham said. "Normally citizens have to pay for street improvements."

After the bids close in March, the street work should begin and continue through "the best part of next summer," he said.

The second Provo street project is the extension of 1460 North off the Grandview Hill, connecting it with Columbia Lane which extends from the Riverside Shopping Center.

Several spots in that area are potentially dangerous," Bingham said. One is the narrow intersection at Jordan Avenue. Buses from nearby Grandview Elementary School regularly turn from Jordan to Columbia and are forced to swing far on to the road's shoulder to maneuver the turn.

"It's a really hazardous intersection," Bingham said. "There is the potential for a very serious accident."

The plan is to close one road and cul-de-sac the other. Presently, workers from the Street Department are filling the area with Rock Cannon debris as base for a winter project. Bingham said 30 to 40 per cent of the filling is complete, but the weather may present problems. "We're kind of at the mercy of the weather," he said.

A plan is planned for this project and drain pipes and a foot path from the bottom of the hill to aid children going to and from school. The path should be finished by the end of the winter.

Bingham predicted completion of the project by next summer.

Other problems perceived by the Provo City are being investigated daily and plans for improvements are going on, Bingham said. Last summer's two fatalities at the intersection of 1st street and 2230 East in University Avenue have motivated the city to begin consultation with the state.

Ford to step up economic plan

WASHINGTON—White House aides hinted today that President Ford may speed up the timetable for disclosure of his economic program.

But presidential spokesman Ron Nessen denied Ford was worried about a poll showing 86 per cent of Americans interviewed lack confidence in his handling of the economy.

"His economic program will not be based on what he thinks will make him popular," Nessen told reporters after asserting that Ford "just goes along and does what he thinks is right and the polls don't bother him."

Brown begins tour as governor

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—Ronald Reagan was headed for his Santa Barbara ranch today as Democrat Edmund G. Brown Jr. moved into the governor's chair which Reagan occupied for the past eight years.

Brown, the 36-year-old son of the man Reagan defeated for the governorship in 1966, Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, was inaugurated Monday before a joint session of the legislature and a statewide television audience.

Vast fires plague Australia

SYDNEY, Australia—Disaster-battered Australia now is facing a once in a lifetime wave of bushfires that has blackened vast areas of grazing land and burned thousands of sheep alive.

The bushfire season, just two months old and likely to last until March, has already left more land burned than the areas of Montana, North Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming combined.

Arab hijacker caught by British

LONDON—Police seized an Arab hijacker Tuesday night at Stansted Airport near London and freed five captive crew members aboard a British jetliner he had ordered flown to France with a ransom of $230,000, authorities reported.

The hijacking was the first ever at British airports or in British airspace, although British planes have been hijacked elsewhere.

der Sill says, make now count

RY LYNN RISHTON
Senior Staff Writer

"We can prevail our lives," said Elder Sill, in Tuesday's devotional. He counseled students to live correct lives now, since our ambitions will guide our future.

Elder Sill is President David O. McKay, eighth president of the LDS Church, and the Council of the 12 apostles.

learned principles which were necessary to become a prophet when he was 17 years old. "Our lives should be lived to follow the rules given in the great book," said Elder Sill.

"During this period called the new year, we can make determinations about things we've thought of during Christmas time," said Elder Sill.

Elder Sill said the month of January got its name from the Roman god, Janus, who had two faces; one which looked back into the past, and the other which looked into the future. "This is the time when we can look into the past and correct our mistakes," said Elder Sill.

"The greatest day is when we make convictions and decisions about the future," said Elder Sill. He said that through looking into the past, and seeing our mistakes, we can change and resolve to do better in the future.

As an example of living better and preparing for the future, Elder Sill told of a woman who wrote letters to her future children who were in the pre-existence. He said she lived today to prepare for the time when she would become a wife and a mother.

"At this time of the year we need to establish in our hearts the great ideas Christ gave us when he said, 'After Christmas there is sometimes a recession in our lives. This is the time where we can look up into the future,'" said Elder Sill.

"If you are intending only to live in the celestial kingdom it is not necessary to be baptized," said Elder Sill. He stressed that it is necessary to serve the Lord with a fullness of heart, and that there is no middle road.

"No one can be a judge of anybody's life until the last hour," he said and then added, "so live your life as if it were the last hour."

Elder Sill indicated it is important to look at life on an eternal perspective, and not satisfy immediate desires while sacrificing eternal gifts. He used Esau, as an example, who sold his birthright to Jacob for a mess of pottage. "We should strive to make the best of our opportunities in life."

Elder Sill indicated it is

Y chemistry teacher to get

Dr. J. Rex Goates, professor of chemistry at BYU, has been chosen by the Central Utah and Salt Lake Sections of the American Chemical Society to receive the 1974 Utah Award for an "outstanding contribution" in the field of chemistry

Doctor's aide to discuss job

A physician's assistant student currently at Duke University, David Goddard, will speak to students interested in a profession that field Thursday at 4 p.m. in 252 MARB.

Goddard's topic will include how physician's assistants are accepted in the medical world, requirements for admission in the school and other aspects of the program.

while residing in Utah.

Dr. Goates will receive a medallion and present a lecture at an annual banquet Jan. 15 at 6:30 p.m. in the Skymore of the Wilkinson Inn, BYU. Reservations can be made through local ACS sections.

Subject of Dr. Goates' lecture is "Solid-State Intermolecular Compounds." He will review laws and studies of thermodynamics and discuss application of thermodynamics to solid-state intermolecular compounds.

The Lehi, Utah, native received his bachelor's degree from BYU and his doctorate from the University of Wisconsin. He joined the BYU chemistry faculty in 1947. Dr. Goates served as chairman of the Chemistry Department from 1965 to 1968.

The professor has distinguished himself in both research and teaching and has co-authored 44 scientific publications and one textbook.

In 1960 he was honored as BYU's Professor of the Year and in 1962 was named a Sigma Xi Lecturer. He received the Karl G. Maeser Research Award in 1970 and was recently selected to give the 1974-75 Distinguished Faculty Lecture, the highest award given by BYU in recognition of excellence in research.

The professor has received nearly $500,000 in research grants.

ASBYU dates Reasoner talk

Harry Reasoner, half of the ABC television network evening news team, will speak in the ELWC East Ballroom Thursday at noon.

He will speak on the topic: "Can We Survive the '70s?"

His speech is sponsored by the ASBYU Office of Academics.

Reasoner, an author as well as a broadcaster, became well-known for his work as a correspondent and reporter for CBS news. In 1970, he made the surprise switch from CBS to ABC news.

A recipient of the Emmy Award for News Documentary, 1967-1968, the Peabody Award, 1967, and the University of Montana Honorary Medal, Reasoner is also author of "The Reasoner Report" (1966), his collected essays.

Oilmen strike appears likely

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Oil workers and the oil industry continue negotiations over a new contract, but there was no comment from the companies on lowered wage demands by the workers as the possibility of a Tuesday midnight strike grew.

There is a very good possibility of a strike unless there is some additional movement on the part of the oil companies," said union spokesman Jerry Archuleta.

The contracts of the locals of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union expired at midnight local time. Each of the 430 local bargaining units negotiates with the companies separately at refinery locations across the country.

The union late Monday reduced its wage demand by 30 cents an hour in each of the three years of a proposed contract — $1.20 per hour increase instead of $1.50. The union is also seeking an immediate 50-cent an hour hike as a "catchup" to inflation.

A.F. Grospiron, president of the Denver-based union, has not said if he will call a strike when contracts expire. He said he would consider any walkout to be industrywide or aimed at only one or a few companies.

The last industrywide oil workers strike was in 1969. It lasted up to four months at some companies. In 1971 there was a flurry of selective strikes.

The union produce about 60 percent to 70 percent of the nation's daily 14.2 million barrel gasoline production.

Tickets go on sale for children's play

Tickets for "The Emperor's New Clothes" are now on sale in the Drama Ticket Office, HFAC.

Prices are $1.75 for general admission and $1 with a BYU activity card. Children are admitted for 35 cents.

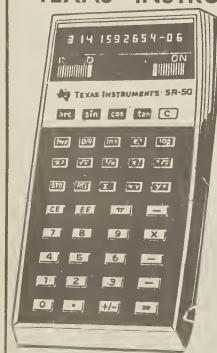

The show will run Jan. 15 through 17 in the Pardoe Drama Theater, HFAC, starting each evening at 8 p.m.

"The Emperor's New Clothes" is being presented by "The Whittin' and Whistin' Boys," a BYU traveling repertory children's company. The company's name was taken from a group of children in Nauvoo in 1845. The children were organized to follow any stranger when he entered the town "whittin' and whistin'" so the townspeople would know where he was.

The organization has recently been formed under the direction of Harold R. Oaks, the director of the children's theater program in the Drama Department. The group will travel to Colorado and southern Utah and perform for elementary schools.

Dr. Oaks said the eventual goal is to take the company anywhere the LDS church is to help teach gospel principles. "The Emperor's New Clothes" was written by Connie Walker, a student at BYU majoring in drama. Richard C. Christensen wrote the music.

Hyenas getting bad rap

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Is the hyena a victim of bad public relations? Author-scientist Jane Goodall thinks so, and she will plead her case on a television special.

The show is "The Hyena Story" and it will appear on ABC-TV this spring. Miss Goodall was here for a lecture at the California Institute of Technology and she paused over coffee to explain her interest in the hyena:

Preys on young "When my son was very young, it was necessary for me to leave my studies with the chimpanzees because they have to know about small children. So we moved from Gombe to the Serengeti Plain and that's where I was attracted to hyenas."

"They are much more individualistic than the antelope, for instance. Antelopes need only to hear to run fast. Carnivores have a much more complex brain, since hunters need other faculties to stalk their prey as well as avoid being preyed upon."

Cowardly "Hyenas have this reputation for being cowardly, skulking creatures who steal other animals' kills. Indeed they do scavenge, but they are also excellent hunters. They will attack animals as large as a rhino and even harass a mother rhino to get at her baby. That doesn't seem fair, since the rhino is such an unwieldy creature."

"Hyenas will often drive a lion away from her kill. Lions, on the other hand, will prey on hyenas' kill. So when you see photographs of hyenas waiting for a lion to finish eating, it might well be their dinner, not his."

Miss Goodall said that the public's misinformation about hyenas is due to the fact that there are few experts on the beasts.

Band openings now available

Openings for brass, woodwind and percussion instrumentalists are available for the Symphonic Band this semester. Auditions are required to join the group. However, it is necessary to have previous high school band experience, according to band director Michael Chesley.

Chesley said it is especially designed for those who are apprehensive about trying for other BYU performing groups because of the size and competition.

The one-credit class meets every Tuesday and Thursday from 2-4 p.m. If interested, one should attend the scheduled class at E251 HFAC. Further information may be obtained by contacting Chesley, E393 HFAC.

Play judges to see BYU production

The BYU production of "A Man For All Seasons" will be performed at 8 p.m. tonight in the American College Theatre Festival competition at Weber State College in Ogden.

The BYU troupe, who put on a play at E1-B on November 4-7 and 9-14, will compete for honors with four other schools in Region IV of the competition, said Charles Hansen, business manager and scene designer for the BYU Drama Department. Region IV covers the states of Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana and Montana.

"Whoever wins in Ogden is in line to be selected to go to the Kennedy Center in Washington D.C. this spring," said Hansen, who also serves on the BYU Drama Council's Advisory Council on Arts to the Kennedy Center.

In Washington D.C., Hansen said, schools from nine regions will perform. Ryan Scholarships, which are equivalent to four-year scholarships, will be presented at the end of the festival to performers judged the Best Actor and Best Actress.

"I think our chances of winning are as good as they've ever been," said Hansen. He will play a part put together by Dr. Harold Hansen, professor of dramatic arts, who is now on sabbatical. Dr. Charles L. Metten, also professor of dramatic arts, has taken the cast and crew of 30 to Ogden. Performing in the Robert Bolt play at WSC will be the same cast that performed at BYU. Roger Larson plays the lead role of Sir Thomas More. Dear Kerr portrays Thomas Cromwell and Spencer E. McMullin plays Henry VIII.

Transportation

in the future

LOS ANGELES (AP) - A bus propelled by passengers pumping on a set of pedals.

Passengers into capsules and shoot them onto passing trains. Cushions on top of the trains would soften the landings. A string of electromagnets to projectiles.

How do these ideas grab you as solutions to the mass transit problem?

They are among more than 12,000 responses to a nationwide advertising campaign by Atlantic Richfield Co. of Los Angeles, asking for ideas on public transportation.

Some are fantastic suggestions from children and others are seriously thought out proposals by business and professional people.

"There is some junk," said George K. Krueger, the Arco attorney who heads the firm handling the mail. "But the percentage who take it seriously is very high. 70 per cent to 80 per cent or more. The ideas may be obsolete, or far-fetched, but most are serious."

Arco says it will publicize some ideas and pass others on to appropriate government agencies.

Arco's research division has come up with 100 ideas which are obviously impractical or already in use. Ideas that seem to have a glimmer of hope are forwarded to a second review board composed of graduate students in transportation and urban planning.

The ideas that survive the second screening go on to a panel of professors of urban planning, architecture and transportation.

Tickets for "The Music Man" will go on sale at 8 p.m. with the matinee beginning at 4:30 p.m.

The show is being directed by Ivan A. Croslan, with D. W. Weller as stage manager, K. Nease as choreographer, K. Nease as musical director, and Gene Larson as vocal director.

"The dancing and singing are really the highlight of the show," said Croslan. "The show moves, and it is one sequence of entertainment after another. As many times as I have seen it at rehearsals, it still takes my breath away," he continued.

Chip Boynton, a drama major from Mesa, Ariz., takes the lead role of Harold Hill, and Joanne Stephens plays the part of Marian.

An additional feature will be a quartet of singing professors from BYU, called the "Latter-day Sounds". The quartet includes McKay Rollins, assistant professor of health sciences; Rollie Bestor, assistant professor of physical education; Harold Hickman, director of instructional T.V. Services; and Milton Wille, professor of mechanical engineering.

Nita McKenzie (left), Caroline Lee, Cathy Fillmore and Star Lynn Hayner will perform in BYU production of "The Music Man."

Douglas' son turns producer

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What do television series stars do during their between-season vacations? In the case of Michael Douglas, he's producing a $3-million movie.

The talented son of Kirk Douglas finished his third season of "The Streets of San Francisco" in December. Now, he's started producing "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" starring Jack Nicholson and directed by Milos Forman. The film will be made almost entirely at the Oregon State Mental Hospital at Salem.

Young Douglas, 30, is an example of a modern maverick working inside the establishment. It seemed inevitable that he would go into acting—his mother, Diana Dill, is an actress, and his father is one of the screen's most durable stars.

"One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" has a long history, dating back to 1963, when Kirk Douglas starred in the Broadway play. It had a one-month run, but was not a success.

"People came out of the play loving it," said Michael, "but they told their friends, 'It's okay—if you like laughing at crazy people.' Attitudes toward mental illness were different then."

Kirk Douglas bought the movie rights and twice neared production, but the deals fell through. Lawsuits over ownership of the property further stalled the film version, and Douglas decided three years ago to dispose of the play.

"Let me take it over," his son urged.

"I can at least get back what you put into it."

Characteristically, Michael Douglas declined to make "Cuckoo's Nest" to major companies, seeking instead to make the film with complete independence. He finally found a backer: Sol Zaentz, operator of the Berkeley-based Fantasy Records, home of the Creedence Clearwater Revival and other rock stars.

Players sought for cast

Tryouts for the Utah Valley Repertory Theater Company's production of "Hamlet," directed by recent BYU graduate Orson Scott Card, and "Rosencrantz and Gilderstern Are Dead," directed by Sterling Van Wagoner, have been announced.

Auditions will be held Saturday from 6 until 9 p.m. at 1827 North Sego Lane, north of the Marriott Center and east of the stadium, and Monday from 5 until 9 p.m. at the Payvo High School, room B-214.

A single cast will be chosen to perform in both shows. Each show will be presented on alternating nights, March 5 through 8, 12 through 15, 19 through 22, and the March 24.

There are some parts for older, mature men (e.g. Polonius and Claudius), younger men (e.g. Hamlet and Laertes), and two lead female roles, according to Orson Scott Card. Gertrude is a strong and more mature lead; Ophelia is a sensitive, ingentle role, said Card.

Those wishing to try out should prepare and read a two- or three-minute scene from any Shakespearean play. They will be expected to read selections from the script of "Rosencrantz and Gilderstern Are Dead."

Y organist
to perform in concert

A BYU senior music major with an organ emphasis and the Mormon Youth Symphony will give an inaugural concert for a new pipe organ recently installed in the Lake City Pioneer Stake Center.

George McClellan will be the solo organist at the free concert Saturday at 8 p.m. at 1401 W. 700 South in Salt Lake City. McClellan helped in the construction of the organ, which has approximately 850 pipes and cost $29,000.

The concert will feature the first performance of two new works for voice and organ. The composers are Darwin Wofford, professor of music at Ricks College, Idaho, and Thomas Richner, professor of music at Rutgers University, N.J.

Other works performed will be a Handel organ concerto, three organ sonatas by Mozart, three organ pieces by Bach, a prelude, a partita for English horn and organ by Koetsier, and an organ chorale and toccata by Boellman.

Other soloists besides

McClellan will be Rob Morgan on the English horn and Barbara Robison, a soprano from the Mormon Tabernacle Choir. The Mormon Youth Symphony will be conducted by Robert Bowden.

Indiana rated No. 1 in poll, UCLA's Bruins grab No. 2

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Boyish-faced Bobby Knight, the fiery competitor who made aggressive nose-to-nose defense his coaching trademark, has guided Indiana to the top of the college basketball world.

The unbeaten Hoosiers, who won their 13th game of the season Monday night, are ranked No. 1 in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll, announced Tuesday.

Knight's dream

11 marks the culmination of an effort begun four years ago by Knight, when he left the head coaching job at Army to take the post at Indiana.

The Hoosiers, rated No. 2 last week, took the first run on the ladder from defending national champion North Carolina State, which was upset by Wake Forest 83-78 Friday night.

Indiana received 36 first-place votes and a total of 103 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Second was undefeated UCLA, which drew 14 top votes and 988 points.

Louisville, another unbeaten club, received 10 second-place votes and 776 points, good for third place over N.C. State, which got 762 points.

Each of the three unbeaten climbed one notch from last week. Balloting is based on games played through last Saturday, and at that time Indiana was 8-0, UCLA 10-0, Louisville 8-0 and N.C. State 9-1.

Maryland, 1-1, grabbed fifth place with 558 points up from seventh after a week in which the Gophers beat Oregon, 74-64.

Stanford, 10-1, which lost to Fordham in the final of the EAC Holiday Festival, dropped one spot to sixth, with 502 points.

Kentucky, 8-1, climbed two spots to seventh with 499 points. Alabama 7-1, dropped two notches to eighth with 429; Oregon, 9-0, climbed two places to ninth with 425, and Arizona 10-1, rounded out the top ten with 221 points, up from 14th place a week ago.

Indiana strength

Indiana took the championship of the Rainbow Classic by beating Hawaii 69-52 last Monday. The team, which is 10-1, is in 10th place in the race in which 10 black Michigan State players did not participate. The Hoosiers made it 13-0 by whipping Michigan 90-76 Monday night.

The Hoosiers were co-champions of the Big Ten last year when they compiled a 23-3 record, won the Collegiate Commissioners Association tourney and were rated ninth in last year's final. Indiana is led by forward Steve Green and Scott May, sophomore center Kent Benson and guard Quinn Buckner, who gave up football this fall to concentrate on basketball. Knight has also made ample use of his bench, often using five or six players in a game, and John Laskowski has earned a reputation as a super-sub for his efforts off the bench.

Rounding out

Michigan 9-1, placed 11th in this week's poll with 206 points, followed by Arizona State, 11-1; 171; Marquette, 6-2, 150; LaSalle, 10-1, 93; North Carolina, 9-3, 70; South Carolina, 6-3, 66; Minnesota, 9-1, 36; Central Michigan, 7-3, 26; Wake Forest, each 7-3, tied for 19th with 24 points.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7.

Steelers forge hopes in quarterback's play

ORLEANS (AP) — Bradshaw knows the failure of the will rest with him. He ducks under the snap and take the snap and running Pittsburgh's in Sunday's Super game against Minnesota. new feeling for the and one from Louisiana. He's been in and the team. Tarkenton ands. He's been in for 14 years. Everything revolves the quarterback," said Monday as both began preparing for Super Bowl IX. "If a quarterback has a good game, that can be the difference between winning and losing. Some of the rest of the team is involved and they play a helping hand. But if it all comes down to the quarterback, I'm the leader. If I play good, we win. If I play bad, we lose."

Last start

For much of the season, Bradshaw wasn't playing at all. He was third string and on the bench for the first six games. That's a situation Tarkenton never has faced.

Fran always has been first string for five seasons in New York and nine in Minnesota.

"I think the experience helps," said Tarkenton of thinking being able to call on 14 years of experience is an advantage for me in these types of games. I've faced just about every situation you can, I guess."

That's a situation that Tarkenton never faced. Bradshaw was the frustration of sitting on the bench which weighed heavily on Bradshaw through the first half of the season.

"In the beginning, I felt I had to earn this team," Bradshaw said. "Then I felt I was no good to them, that I was being wasted."

Turning point

The turning point for Bradshaw came after the season's 12th game. He had sat out the first six while Joe Gilliam was the starting club. Then after Bradshaw played three games, Coach Chuck Noll switched to Terry Hanratty for one. Bradshaw played the next two but came up with a clunker, losing to

"It was after that game," Bradshaw said. "I felt terrible. I figured I had blown the job again. But Coach Noll called me into his office and said he was going to give me another shot. He told me to relax, go out and do it."

The vote of confidence turned things around for Bradshaw.

Tarkenton ready

That was four games ago, and the Steelers have had four straight victories. They won't get a fifth if Tarkenton has his way.

"We've worked hard to get here and we've played well," Tarkenton said. "We've done what we had to do to get here."

The Vikings, of course, have been to the Super Bowl before—with Tarkenton last year and with Joe Kapp in 1970. They lost both times. "We think this time we won one of these things," Tarkenton said. "We sure don't want to be the first team to lose the Super Bowl three times."

The veteran quarterback, who stands 6 feet, 6 inches, and weighs 190 pounds, thinks he knows how to avoid that fate.

"I think the team that wins Sunday will be the one that establishes some consistency in moving the football," he said.

"We've got to get into their end zone, not just settle for a field goal. The team that avoids the big error will win this game."

Stabler, Greene

voted NFL's best

NEW YORK (AP) — Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler and Mean Joe Greene, defensive tackle of the Pittsburgh Steelers, were named the National Football League's top players by The Associated Press Tuesday.

A nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters chose Stabler the Offensive Player of the Year, and gave defensive honors to Greene based on their performances during the 1974 NFL regular season.

Stabler, a left-hander, led the Raiders to the American Conference West Division championship. He passed for 2,469 yards and a league-leading 26 touchdowns, with a 57.4 per cent of his attempts. It was Stabler's last-minute scoring pass that gave Oakland its first-round playoff victory and eliminated defending champion Miami. A week later, the Raiders were knocked off by Greene and the Steelers in the American Conference championship game.

Greene, long the menace of opposing quarterbacks, threw passes for losses eight times during the regular season, leading the Steelers to a league-high 52 sacks. He helped Pittsburgh compile the best defensive statistics in the AFC—a yield of only 219.6 yards per game.

His selection marked the second time Greene has been named the top defensive performer. He also was chosen by the AP panel in 1972.

Stabler was a heavy pick in the voting with 29 votes, easily outdistancing Denver's Ollie Armstrong, who had 14 votes, and running back Terry Metcalf of the St. Louis Cardinals, who had 12. Last year's Offensive Player of the Year, Buffalo's O.J. Simpson, received just one vote in this year's balloting.

Voting for defensive honors was much closer. Greene won it with 13 votes, barely topping Philadelphia linebacker Bill Bergey, who had 12. Also in the voting showings were linebacker Ted Hendricks of Green Bay with seven votes, tackle Alan Page of Minnesota and cornerback Emmitt Thomas of Kansas City with six each.

Jamaica may host Ali's bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali's first defense of the heavyweight championship he regained in Africa most likely will be against journeyman Chuck Wepner in Jamaica. It will not be against third-ranked Ron Lyle at Madison Square Garden in March, according to a Garden official.

Herbert Muhammad, called me this morning and said that he had decided to cancel the Lyle fight and expected to take a fight with Wepner in Jamaica," Mike Burke, president of Madison Square Garden Center, told the Associated Press Monday.

"We had really expected to sign tomorrow with Herbert with an agreement to fight Ron Lyle March 24 in the Garden."

Boxer John Daly of Hemdale Leisure Corp., which was set to handle closed-circuit television for an Ali-Lyle fight, said that Ali and his manager had agreed to fight Lyle for $2 million in the Garden March 24.

WAC record best

DENVER (AP) — The eight Western Athletic Conference member teams have posted the best won-lost record among the nation's conferences.

With nine non-league games remaining, the WAC boasts a composite 68-18 record for a .791 percentage. The closest competitor is the Pacific Eight, which has a 56-17 record, or .767 percentage.

Bowlers wait for regionals

The men's and women's varsity bowling team members are making preparations to enter a regional tournament after having the women place third among 33 teams at the Los Angeles Collegiate Invitational during the holidays.

Some 16 states were represented at the competition which saw UCLA walk off with all men's team and school events wins.

The BYU men's team averaged 183. High game for the team was 245 by Darryl May.

Hal Brendle had the high series for the team with 594.

Arizona State will host the tournament next year and has already received entries from such teams as Michigan State and others further west.

BYU Coach Shaffer Bown said the tournament should be the largest one yet. If the BYU teams win the Region 13 tournament hosted in Boulder, Colo., Feb. 13-15, they will qualify for the national finals in Dayton, Ohio, in May.

Unusual pets are loved pets

It is amazing to see the unusual pets that some BYU students own. Take, for example, a black widow spider, a chipmunk, an iguana, some gila monsters, a python and a dog that attends classes at BYU with its owner.

Bill Bigelow, a sophomore from McLean, Va., is the proud owner of a black widow spider which he keeps in a ventilated jar in his bedroom. Neither he nor his roommates seem concerned about the spider getting loose, even though a tarantula once escaped in their bedroom and had never been found.

Bill catches insects for his "pet" to eat and he says that she won't eat anything that's already dead; she must kill it herself.

Freddy, the chipmunk, belongs to Brian Patch, a junior from his home town of Orem, and his wife, Tayva, a junior in dramatic arts. Freddy is let loose in their house each day while Brian and Tayva attend classes. He doesn't seem to be a very picky eater, for example one day for breakfast he ate applesauce, toast, raisins, saltine crackers, chocolate cake and some peanuts for dessert. He likes to hide his food and sometimes buries his seeds in houseplants. Sometimes, these seeds sprout.

Earl Loveless, a prelaw senior, has many unusual pets, but is shown here with his pet Iguana. He says reptiles are excellent pets because, contrary to popular belief, they are clean, odorless and can be left without feeding for days at a time.

Janet Sprague, a junior in zoology from Escondido, Calif., owns five gila monsters which she keeps in the Herpetology Research Lab on campus. She says they are an endangered species, and that she keeps them so that she can learn more about them. She wants to study their venom—how toxic it is and how it compares to the venom of its relative, the Mexican beaded lizard.

Julius Squeezes is a three-year-old python owned by Michael Centini, the curator of the Herpetology Lab. Julius is now 13 feet long but will grow to three times that size.

Although Dinkus V. Poop isn't such an unusual pet, he gets to do some unusual things. Dinkus attends classes with his owner, Brenda Sinclair, a junior in drama from Dublin, Calif. He is the drama students' mascot and was even on the class roll in Miss Sinclair's religion class.
